

DEREK BOURGEOIS

David C F Wright DMus

Derek Bourgeois is a highly gifted British composer and has the distinction of having written 115 symphonies to date. He is the finest British composer of music for brass and military bands which is played all over the world with tremendous success but has this overlooked his symphonic works?

He was born in Kingston on 16 October 1941. His father (1917-1991) was a director at Moulinex GB and his mother (1918-1984) followed no occupation as such and neither of them were musical.

Derek was one of three children, the others being Linda (1947-1998) and Wendy (1953).

He began composing at the age of five. His piano teacher, a lady ‘from down the road’ showed him some pieces composed by Mozart when he was five and Derek demanded a manuscript book from his mother. He composed what he calls a lot of doodles and, at the age of 13, wrote a piano sonata.

His first recognised piece was his Variations on a well known theme for piano, Op 1.

His later schools were Cranleigh School (1954-1959) as a music scholar. Whilst at Cranleigh, he studied the tuba having to learn it in a few days because the assigned tuba player to the music written for the school play was taken ill. A few months later, he was admitted to the NYO as a tuba player. From Cranleigh, he became a music scholar at Magdalene College, Cambridge (1959-1963) where his tutors were Philip Radcliffe and Raymond Leppard. Derek’s Symphony no 1 was performed there on 22 November 1961 conducted by David Willcocks.

At Cambridge, Derek attained first class honours.

He then went up to the Royal College of Music from 1959 to 1962. He studied with Herbert Howells, who may not have been the best teacher but was a very fine encourager. He also studied with Sir Adrian Boult who was precise and inspiring as I can also testify.

He married Jean Berry in Cambridge in 1965. She was a first violinist in the Halle Orchestra and then the Welsh National Opera. She died of Motor Neurone disease in Mallorca in 2006. For many years Derek nursed and cared for her with unflagging loyalty and love.

There were no children.

Bourgeois had applied for a musical post at Bristol University in 1971 and became a lecturer in music. His most notable student was probably the composer Julian Grant.

He was Chairman of the Composers Guild (1981-1984) where he recommended a scale of fees for commissioned works and was on the Music Reading Panel for the Arts Council (1982-1984).

He composed so much music that it cannot be dealt with here, He has made unfashionable instruments to be reckoned with. The Tuba Concerto no 2 op 312 of 2014 presents the soloist in an usual light with melodious lyricism and beauty. The earlier concerto for three trombones, strings and percussion op 56 of 1977 is equally skilful and totally satisfying as is the sonata for trombone and wind band op 156 of 1998. Another revelation is the Concerto for trombone and orchestra op 114 of 1988 which has its virtuosity and a tremendous beauty and lyricism. The Concerto Grosso for brass tentet is a super work and , at the premiere, Philip Jones played the demanding flugelhorn part. There is an impressive concerto for tenor horn in E flat op 194 of 2003. I did not warm to his Clarinet Concerto op 51 of 1976.

It should be remembered that symphonic wind band music includes much percussion, perhaps piano, harp, and often a string bass. In bands in Spain cellos are often used.

He has written some fine choral works.

In 1983, he applied for the position of Musical Director at the National Youth Orchestra having been composer-in-residence there for four years. A highlight was persuading Pierre Boulez to conduct Schoenberg's Gurreleider with Jessye Norman at a 1987 Prom.

Derek formed the National Youth Chamber Orchestra which gave its first concert in 1989.

He applied for a position at St Paul's Girls School in 1993 and was there from 1994 until he retired in 2002 when he moved to Mallorca where his wife was diagnosed with Motor Neurone disease. Between his devoted nursing of her, he composed including pieces about the island including the Symphony no 8 The Mountains of Mallorca and the Symphony no 16 Songs of Mallorca to poems by Llobera and a four movement symphonic suite Mallorca around Mallorcan folk melodies

He conducted the premiere of the Symphony no 8 in Palma in 2004 and Helen Field was the soloist in the Symphony no 16 in Palma in 2006. These were versions for wind band. There is also about 150 minutes of music for the Felanitx Wind Band.

Bourgeois lived in New York for six months during 2008/2009. Here he married Norma Torney in Poughkeepsie in October 2008. He returned to UK in March 2009.

Derek knew Elgar Howarth the trumpeter of the Philip Jones Brass Ensemble. He was the conductor of the Grimethorpe Colliery Band and sent Bourgeois a LP of some pieces for band. Eventually, Derek arranged his Sonata for two pianos for band as an experiment and it became something of a band classic and was known as Concerto no 1 for brass band.

His band music and wind band music is played worldwide and is admired everywhere. Some of his symphonies have intriguing titles:

- 4 Wine
- 6 Cotswold
- 8 Mountains of Mallorca
- 11 Death/Limbo/Hell/Oblivion
- 13 The Unlucky
- 16 Songs of Mallorca
- 32 The Equaliser in that he catches up with Havergal Brian's total
- 41 Sibfonia Andalucia
- 42 Life, the Universe and Everything which lasts two hours and thirty five minutes and also requires four soloists and a chorus
- 45 What Ho! Symphony which is based on Haydn's Farewell Symphony but in the first movement the players enter in the reverse order to their departure in Haydn's finale.

- 46 A Dorset Symphony Jurassic Coast
- 52 The Halfway in the sense that it is halfway to Haydn's total
- 59 Percussion Symphony
- 65 Overture, Concerto and Symphony
- 68. The Tower of Babel is an arrangement of symphony no 68 for wind band
- 69 The Tuneful
- 72 The Ghost because of its eerie sounds and use of the Dies Irae

82a and 82b two independent symphonies that use the same material based on two books by Stephen King under his nom de plume Richard Bachman, Desperation and The Regulators which use the same characters and locations that have very different outcomes

Derek's symphony No 32 is in 32 movements. The symphonies numbers 4,6,8,16,41 and 68 exist in versions for wind band. The second movement of Symphony No 46 is known as 'Jurassic Coast' and has been recorded for Wind Band

This shows that he is an eclectic, has a wide interest and a sense of humour.

Eclecticism is shown within some works themselves. His marvellous Symphony no 35 Op 250 of 2006 has everything from seriousness, invigorating rhythms, tenderness and lyricism and, while some will assert that the four movements do not belong to one work, we are left with a rewarding experience and a work that will find friends and become deservedly popular.

There is nothing wrong in being eclectic. Great composers like Hindemith and Stravinsky were and this shows a versatility that many others do not have.

Bourgeois has the ability to write profound music as in his Symphony no 3 and yet writes what might be deemed light music as, for example, in his Symphony no 67. He admires Malcolm Arnold and much of Derek's fun music transcends that of Arnold.

His last professional performance of a symphony was number 7 in 2002 and numbers 8, 16 and 41 and 48 have been played in the wind band versions.

All his symphonies can be heard as separate movements as MP3 on the Score Exchange web site.

Among his symphonies he has many favourites... numbers 8, 9, 11, 17, 24, 30, 33, 35, 41, 42, 47, 55, 65, 68,78. 104 and 107. He would probably choose the massive Symphony no 42 for a live performance. The splendid Symphony no 30 is dedicated to me.

Here is a composer with a wealth of music that has much to commend it. He is surely our most important symphonist and his neglect is inexcusable. He has a precise way in his speech and he speaks with authority on music and other subjects.

He is not 'acid' in his views but diplomatic. He may not admire Chopin and prefers Schumann over Schubert. He is not fond of strictly atonal music and Schoenberg's Wind Quintet leaves him cold. He thinks that Gliere, Constant Lambert and Kenneth Leighton are deserving of more attention.

In recent years, he has had major surgical operations and at the end of October 2016 had major surgery lasting six hours in the Dorset County Hospital in Dorchester. He has been lovingly cared for by his wife, Norma Torney.
